RON S. MAURICE is a Cree-Métis lawyer specializing in aboriginal and treaty rights advocacy and land claims negotiations on behalf of First Nations. Ron has practiced law since 1991 and is a member of the bar in Alberta (2000), Ontario (1995), and Saskatchewan (1991). Ron also has extensive experience in the negotiation of land claims, civil litigation, administrative law, and alternative dispute resolution.

In May 2002, Ron established Maurice Law Barristers & Solicitors, a boutique law firm specializing in aboriginal and treaty rights advocacy. Despite being a relatively new firm, Maurice Law has earned a strong reputation for providing top notch legal advice and advocacy and we have a proven track record for delivering excellent results on behalf of our clients. Currently, Maurice Law represents several First Nations, tribal councils, organizations and individuals across Canada in relation to the negotiation and litigation of land claims, the nature and scope of the Crown's fiduciary duties to First Nations, consultations for potential infringements on aboriginal and treaty rights, administrative law, corporate and commercial law, oil and gas, natural resource development, taxation, trusts, and alternative dispute resolution.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS AND EXPERIENCE

- Successfully negotiated settlement agreement for unlawful taking of 12,500 acres of reserve land for $82.4 million in compensation, the 4th largest specific claim settled at that time. Maurice Law was instrumental in drafting the terms of a Settlement Agreement and an innovative Trust Agreement designed to provide long term prosperity to the First Nation which were overwhelmingly ratified by the membership in February 2003
- Developed Trust Agreement for settlement of $75 million specific claim involving unlawful taking of reserve lands set apart for three First Nations in southern Saskatchewan.
- Negotiated and drafted terms of a trust agreement providing for the management and investment of $19.5

million to promote economic development and strategic investment in infrastructure for four northern Saskatchewan communities in 2007

- Ron represents several First Nations across Canada including the Beardy's & Okemasis (SK), Black River (MB), Cote (SK), Deh Gah Got'ie Dene Council (NWT), Missanabie Cree (ON), Mosquito-Grizzly Bear's Head-Lean Man (SK), Kehewin (AB), Sakimay (SK), Shuswap Indian Band (BC), Siksika Nation (AB), Sagkeeng (MB), Tsuu T'ina Nation (AB), Whitefish (Goodfish) Lake (AB), and the Federation of Saskatchewan Indian Nations in relation to outstanding claims against the Crown. In addition to the many claims which have been accepted for negotiation based on submissions prepared by Maurice Law, we currently represent First Nations in negotiations on 14 specific claims covering a broad range of issues including treaty land entitlements, illegal surrenders of reserve land and mineral rights, expropriations, mismanagement and breach of trust, and associated claims for damages and restitution.
- Successfully represented the Metis Settlements Appeal Tribunal on several appeals before the Alberta Court of Appeal including the Charter of Rights and membership issues and oil and gas development on Metis lands
- Appointed as member of Equality, Equity and Diversity Committee of the Law Society of Alberta (2005-2006)
- Independent Chairperson of Implementation Monitoring Committee for Manitoba Treaty Land Entitlement (TLE) Framework Agreement from 1999 to 2005. Responsible for monitoring and facilitating implementation of 20 TLE agreements between Manitoba First Nations, Canada, and Manitoba
- As Commission Counsel to the Indian Claims Commission of Canada, Ron was involved in 66 public inquiries into specific claims from 1992 to 1998 (see attached list). Researched and drafted comprehensive legal opinions and Commission inquiry reports on a broad range of claims and issues
- Directed a team of 16 to 20 legal and research professionals and managed the fiscal and administrative operations of the Indian Claims Commission as a member of the Management Committee
- Interviewed over 100 Elders on the spirit and intent of treaties and the historical background of specific claims and assisted in the development of processes to integrate oral history and traditions of First Nations with non-aboriginal concepts of law and justice
- Chaired and facilitated the resolution of disputes in claims negotiations between representatives of First Nations and federal and provincial governments through the use of alternative dispute resolution techniques
- Independent technical advisor to the Assembly of First Nations-Canada Joint Task Force on Claims Policy Reform and assisted in drafting proposed legislation to establish an independent claims tribunal (1996-1998)
- Faculty co-leader of certified course on Specific Claims at the Turn of the Century at Banff Centre for Aboriginal Management (1996-2001) and regular speaker or chair of conferences including Aboriginal Oil and Gas Forum (2007), Maurice Law-Native Law Centre Conferences on Aboriginal and Treaty Rights Advocacy (2005-2007), Pacific Business Institute on specific claims (2004), Indigenous Bar Association on the duty to consult (2004), Insight Conference on treaty right to taxation (2003), the Canadian Bar Association on specific claims policy reform (1999), and the Canadian Bar Association on alternative dispute resolution (1999)
- Board Member for the Ontario Criminal Injuries Compensation Board (1993-1995)
- Board Member for Aboriginal Legal Services of Toronto (1992-1994)

SKILLS AND ABILITIES

- Proven negotiation skills and ability to resolve outstanding land claims and reach settlements between First Nations and government representatives by generating creative options for mutual gain
- Excellent analytical and advocacy skills coupled with strong oral and written communication skills
- Sound judgment and strategic decision making abilities with solid understanding of legal, policy, historical, and practical issues relevant to validation, negotiation, settlement, and implementation of specific claims agreements
- Resourceful, adaptable, and dedicated professional with strong interpersonal skills and sensitivity to client's needs and aspirations
